Supporting Apprentices Through Success Coaches

Healthcare Grantee: Bergen Community College
Grant Name: HealthWorks Scaling Apprenticeship Grant

Bergen Community College (BCC), a New Jersey Scaling Apprenticeship (SA) grantee, streamlined processes and created a positive experience for students participating in healthcare apprenticeships through the HealthWorks SA Grant. The community college is a former recipient of U.S. Departments of Education and Labor grants geared toward upskilling individuals with in-demand, industry recognized credentials. Utilizing the learning from previous grants, BCC’s project leadership developed and funded the Success Coach positions for their partner colleges participating in the HealthWorks SA grant.

Evolution of the Success Coach

In 2019, Bergen Community College (BCC) was awarded a HealthWorks Scaling Apprenticeship Grant. BCC is using the funding to collaborate with other community colleges, businesses, and community-based organizations throughout New Jersey to develop healthcare apprenticeship programs for in-demand occupations. BCC leaders recognized the need for apprentices to have a single point of contact who could help them navigate all the components of their program. As a result, 15 Success Coaches were hired and funded under the HealthWorks grant. Each partner college was offered a coach to assist the program and increase success and completion rates for apprentices. The coaches follow the students through all phases of the apprenticeship process, from the initial inquiry to post-completion, to ensure that they have what they need to become successful.

The Success Coach position was modeled after a special services position created in a recent Transition Programs for Students with Intellectual Disabilities (TPSID) grant, which provided employment supports and services to help individuals with disabilities earn in-demand industry credentials and gain employment or remain successful. BCC saw the benefits of this model and integrated it with wrap-around services (from recruiting and registration to tutoring, supportive services, on-the-job learning, and follow-up) in their Health Profession Opportunity Grant (HPOG). Due to the successful implementation of these programs, BCC adopted best practices and lessons learned within their HealthWorks Scaling Apprenticeship grant. Past successes led to easy buy-in and an evidenced-based model that supports apprentices throughout their apprenticeship journey.

According to Andrea Nemeth, Project Director for the BCC HealthWorks SA grant, the team wanted to “introduce and connect the apprenticeship model to the field of healthcare, taking the old concept of apprenticeships and applying it to the healthcare industry.” There were lots of challenges to tackle prior to starting a cohort of ten and teaching a course (2019 pandemic, CNA regulations and limitations, licensing, site approvals, and much more). “Additionally, each apprentices had to be vetted and approved (background checks, up-to-date medical records, and vaccinations, etc.).”

Next Steps

BCC is developing a new apprenticeship marketing video and other materials that will go live during New Jersey’s Apprenticeship Month in November 2021 that will target smaller businesses.
Success Coach in Action

- Business process reengineering – Together, BCC and CVS Health reengineered the apprenticeship model to improve hiring and support greater retention in the program. CVS works closely with the Success Coaches and HealthWorks to enhance communications and marketing for their program. This is win-win solution for all stakeholders.
- Apprentice recruitment orientation – The 2019 pandemic has provided the HealthWorks team a chance to evaluate processes and systems, as well as implement creative and innovative recruitment solutions for the HealthWorks SA Grant such as virtual access at all levels (inquiry, application, orientations, training, mentoring, and coaching processes).
- Apprentice communication channel – BCC wanted to create a seamless process for apprentices throughout their apprenticeship journey, from the initial inquiry to the completion of the apprenticeship. Success coaches are available to apprentices throughout all stages and connect regularly through emails, phone calls, texts, and other means of communication. They also prepare apprentices for interviews, screenings, and other job-related tasks.

Elements of Success

The Project Director and Lead Success Coach collaborated and optimized training and communication tools for the additional Success Coaches placed throughout the state. They feel that communication is essential and crosses over into all aspects of the elements of success. Some of the elements below are ongoing and others are a one-time process.

December 2021 Scaling Apprenticeship Emerging Practice Spotlight 3
"Despite the many responsibilities of a Success Coach, the secret is simply communication. Communicating well and often allows one to present opportunities, lead recruitment efforts, identify solutions, convey empathy, inspire people, and create and maintain relationships. The role of the Success Coach is crucial to the success of an apprentice's journey to completion."

Monica Rock, Success Coach

Tips and Strategies for other SA Grantees

The HealthWorks team shared some of their tips and strategies that they found most helpful while implementing this emerging practice:

- Understand why some processes are successful and other strategies fail. Learn from past experiences.
- Utilize electronic forms and virtual meetings to streamline processes.
- Encourage structure and collaboration to share ideas, best practices, and lessons learned.
- Incorporate best practices from other programs and projects.
